Institute for Liberal Arts Digital Scholarship

July 30 - Aug 4, 2017

WHAT IS ILiADS?

ILiADS is a week-long summer institute where participants develop digital projects in teams of faculty, students, librarians, and technologists. During this week of immersion, teams build upon established digital pedagogy or scholarship projects and/or launch new ones. Teams have access to our pool of ILiADS liaisons who provide training and guidance on digital scholarship technologies and methods.

By sponsoring ILiADS, you are supporting a community of practice that values the voices of all its contributors, especially prioritizing students' contributions to digital scholarship. Through projects, conversations, and scholarship, participants explore what it means to be human in the digital age. Your contribution will help seed innovation in liberal arts institutions and their future graduates.

WHAT ELSE? ILiADS IS...

- A collaborative demonstration of the creative and productive potential of digital scholarship
- An immersive professional development opportunity for faculty, librarians, technologists, and undergraduate researchers
- An Institute model that seeks to meet the needs of its community through a flexible and responsive structure

You can help sustain ILiADS into the future!
